. . . . . how cool is that?!!
1. Let’s Get Started! Set up an online account at https://app.applyyourself.com/?id=jhu-grad. Make a note of your PIN and your password.

2. Log In. Agree to the terms of use. You will come to the Welcome screen. Click on the START APPLICATION button. The options on the left represent the sections of the application that you’ll need to complete. See instructions regarding letters of recommendation, transcripts and test scores.

In the Applying for section, you will choose the Combined Graduate Student option.

3. Complete the Citizenship section.

4. Next, we come to the Combined Degree Academic Information section.

5. Testing Information. You do not need to enter GRE scores. You will need to answer the question about having taken the test more than once. You can just say “no”.

6. Next, upload your Statement of Purpose. You can upload a resume if you’d like, but it’s not required.

   Many applicants ask “What should I write for the Statement of Purpose?” The Statement of Purpose is typically 2-3 pages long and often describes how you got interested in the field of civil engineering, how your studies here at Hopkins have helped you grow and learn and why you feel the master’s degree would benefit you.
7. Letters of Recommendation. You don’t need letters of recommendation. The faculty will discuss your application at an admissions meeting. However, the application system will not allow you to proceed without entering 3 references. I recommend that you enter:

- Lisa Wetzelberger  lawetzel@jhu.edu
- Your advisor  advisor email
- Rachel Sangree  sangree@jhu.edu

8. Application Fee: Once you have COMPLETED your application, please let me know. I can then go into the system to waive your application fee and mark your application as submitted. DO NOT pay the $25 fee – refunds are rarely ever granted.

International Applicants: International applicants who are accepted and processed for enrollment will have to provide documentation of financial support (in the form of an updated statement of financial resources).

Contact Lisa Wetzelberger with any questions or problems along the way!
