Dr. Martha Connolly is the Director of Mtech (The UM Technology Enterprise Institute), Baltimore, and Director of BioEntrepreneurship at the University of Maryland. She is the first woman graduate of the JHU BME program. Her recent career has centered on innovation and has spanned academia, government and private industry. She will speak about non-academic careers for BMEs, entrepreneurship and commercializing technology, and how BME can play a critical role in innovation in medical care.